

Creative King's Lynn : Does King's Lynn need a Creative Hub?

Borough Council of King's Lynn &
West Norfolk

Could King's Lynn benefit from a creative hub?

Would a hub :

- Attract people to the town?
- Provide inspiration and experience for young people interested in a creative career?
- Offer opportunities and resources for start-ups?
- Enable networking and better facilities for established creative businesses?
- Could it draw creative entrepreneurs to the Borough from places such as Norwich, Cambridge and the Fens?

Help us to work out what the right kind of hub for King's Lynn and West Norfolk would be and how it could be sustainable.

King's Lynn Creative Cafe

Thursday 22 November 6-8pm

Town Hall, King's Lynn PE30 5DQ

Public consultation event

Come and give us your views about creative industries in and around King's Lynn.

We are a team of locally-based creative consultants who have been appointed to conduct a study into the feasibility of a creative hub in King's Lynn, working on behalf of the Borough Council of King's Lynn and West Norfolk.

Many towns and cities have creative hubs but there are lots of different types - including networks, workspaces, offices, studios, performance/exhibition space, cafés, retail outlets, co-working and hotdesk provision as well as activities and business support in some cases.

We are seeking the views of people in the King's Lynn area (the Borough of West Norfolk especially as well as Cambridge, Ely, Norwich, the rest of Norfolk, Peterborough, Bury St Edmunds etc) to find out whether there would be a demand and support for a creative hub and if so, what kind of hub it should be.

In order to get a true picture, we need as many views as we can get - both from people already running creative businesses but also from young people who are still at school or college, start-up enterprises and people changing career - or thinking about it. Those who have an idea as well as those that are on their way and who want to expand.

So please join us at the Creative Café - a relaxed event where you can tell us what you think.

Doors open at 5.30pm and free refreshments will be available
